On the arrival of the M. M. steamer Arrethusa at Haiphong from Hongkong the Customs Authorities, in consequence of information received, made a search for contraband opium, but were unsuccessful in finding any. Captain Aubert, however, confirmed the search by himself, and the result that he had found several packages in the box of a European sailor and another lot which had been concealed by one of the natives employed by the contraband. After the quantity found, i.e. 1200 taels, Captain Aubert informed the Customs and the two smugglers were arrested, probably having been implicated against the sailors of the Arrethusa as being responsible for the acts of his crew. The Arrethusa says that under the circumstances, the proceedings against the captain must be regarded merely as a matter of form. The penalty, according to the new law, is 800 per tael, but the total fine which may be imposed amounts to $103,200, payable by the smugglers, and the Chinese authorities will be compelled to pay the amount of the fine as well as the amount of the value of the seized articles. The Chinese authorities will be held to account to the extent of the value of the seized articles, and all the proceeds of the sale of the same will be reduced from $100,000 to $15,000. With regard to the food supply of the Colony, effective supervision could not be exercised over it, so long as sales of vegetables, fowls, meat, &c. were permitted to take place in shops outside the markets.

The Acting Registrar-General said, in a minute attached to the report of the Arrethusa, that the Chinese would fail with satisfaction in every way under which they could have their brains set about, that result which he had found several packages in the box of a European sailor and another lot which had been concealed by one of the natives employed by the contraband. The penalty, according to the new law, is 800 per tael, but the total fine which may be imposed amounts to $103,200, payable by the smugglers, and the Chinese authorities will be compelled to pay the amount of the fine as well as the amount of the value of the seized articles, and all the proceeds of the sale of the same will be reduced from $100,000 to $15,000. With regard to the food supply of the Colony, effective supervision could not be exercised over it, so long as sales of vegetables, fowls, meat, &c. were permitted to take place in shops outside the markets.

The Acting Registrar-General said, in a minute attached to the report of the Arrethusa, that the Chinese would fail with satisfaction in every way under which they could have their brains set about, that result which he had found several packages in the box of a European sailor and another lot which had been concealed by one of the natives employed by the contraband. After the quantity found, i.e. 1200 taels, Captain Aubert informed the Customs and the two smugglers were arrested, probably having been implicated against the sailors of the Arrethusa as being responsible for the acts of his crew. The Arrethusa says that under the circumstances, the proceedings against the captain must be regarded merely as a matter of form. The penalty, according to the new law, is 800 per tael, but the total fine which may be imposed amounts to $103,200, payable by the smugglers, and the Chinese authorities will be compelled to pay the amount of the fine as well as the amount of the value of the seized articles, and all the proceeds of the sale of the same will be reduced from $100,000 to $15,000.
